Concurrent License: The maximum number of machines that may use the product at one time.

Example: A company, setting up at a Terminal Server environment (such as Citrix, Metaframe), has a department with 80 computers. The maximum number of users in the department at one time is 20. The company may purchase a 20-user concurrent license from Zeon to be accessed by all 80 machines. The price of a Concurrent license is equivalent to approximately 3 times that of a Per-seat license.
